

Contents

Foreword 9

Chapter 1: The Pursuit of Success

The root of the successful musician	12
Who am I to give you advice?	13
I'm here to help. Let's get started.	17
Meet Cousin Rick	17
What do you want?	20
Ryan Adams	22
For the love of music.	26
There is no magic wand	28
Would they sell their worldly possessions?	29
"Why am I doing this?"	32

Chapter 2: Don't Be an Idiot

The top three artists of all time	35
When opportunity knocks, where will you be?	37
Communication	40
Network, network, network	42
Make a list	46
Look the part	49
8 hours of sleep	54
How to spot an idiot	57
Law & Order re-runs, basketball and gardening	59
10 things I learned from Bruce Hornsby (in no particular order)	61

Chapter 3: Record Labels. Who Cares?

Who's your boss?	64
It's YOUR business. Be involved.	65

Avril	67
Sex and Candy	72
Are record labels dead?	78
The A&R rep	81
We need a manager	89
All for one and one for all?	91
Demystifying the press kit	95
Do we need a lawyer?	97
ASCAP, BMI or SESAC	100
Merchandise is your friend	100

Chapter 4: All About Recording

5 common myths in recording	102
Make a (practical) recording	103
Hiring a band	107
Hiring a producer	109
Finding the right studio and engineer	111

Chapter 5: Booking, Venues, and Touring

One of my earliest mistakes	115
What matters in booking?	119
Build your market so that you can build others	121
The classic booking mistake	123
What is important to venues	125

Chapter 6: What's Next?

The best advice I ever heard	129
What you don't do is as important as what you do	132
Notice "The Moments"	136
Everyone is smarter than you	140
Vienna: the artist, not the city	142
It's your music. Make it personal.	150

Don't move to L.A. 153

Chapter 7: Social Media

It's not about music, it's about pizza 155

Use social media to engage your current and future fans 159

Keep in touch 160

YouTube is the new MTV 163

Chapter 8: American Idol

If all else fails, audition for American Idol... 166

Conclusion 172